

Novilytic Quality Policy

Novilytic is a molecular recognition company that uses nanotechnology to help bring medicines to market faster and less expensively.

Novilytic is committed to providing quality products to our customers, and to achieve this goal we will:

- Develop, implement, and maintain a quality management operating system to deliver quality products that help customers support their lifesaving technology and meet applicable standards.
- Provide appropriate training for our employees in the quality management operating system relevant to their roles.
- Effectively communicate necessary information to our clients to help customers support their lifesaving technology.
- Utilize continuous improvement to our quality system, our technologies, and services to better serve our clients.
- We strive to detect the small inconsistencies that could compromise health.